Group hopes to open substance abuse facility

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jefferson County's Residential Treatment Committee has been meeting monthly for more than a year with a goal of developing a treatment facility that can address the community's high instances of substance abuse.

When the group met on Thursday it was for the first time since receiving grant funding for a coordinator to lead that effort. In addition, they also learned about another group that has also been working on the issue with hopes for a regional 100-bed residential treatment facility in Jefferson County.

Four of the people involved in that effort — Brandon Dugle, Catherine Stone-Hahn, Dr. Corey Foster and Sarah Foster — were at Thursday's meeting to talk about their plans for a proposed facility they would call Joshua's House.

"A group of us had got to together to look at opening a residential treatment facility in Jefferson County," Dugle said, adding the group has begun looking for site locations and hopes their efforts can be coordinated with the Residential Treatment Committee, a subcommittee of the county's Justice Reinvestment Advisory Council (JRAC).

Catherine Stone-Hahn, a licensed clinical social worker (LCSW) who said she is director of a residential treatment facility in Louisville, said the group envisions utilizing an unoccupied facility that is already located in Jefferson County.

"We want to work cooperatively with the court system to take inmates that have been sentenced" that have been diagnosed with substance abuse to receive treatment instead of incarceration, Stone-Hahn said. "The premise

Bonnie Wentworth, the school's administrative assistant, said this is the third year for the food drive, always starting on Ash Wednesday and running through the next Tuesday. The previous record collected was 2,800 items. "We had a little competition to inspire our students along the way," said Wentworth, who said the eighth grade won with 1,429 total items donated, earning those students an afternoon field trip and pizza lunch.

Commissioners asked to apply for Broadband Ready

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jefferson County Commissioners were asked on Thursday to submit an application to the Indiana Broadband Office to make Jefferson County a Broadband Ready community.

The move, which clears the way for telecommunications providers to invest in the community, comes in the wake of Southeastern Indiana Regional Planning Commission's partnership with the Purdue Center for Regional Development to launch Indiana's first regional digital inclusion plan to bring broadband Internet service to more households in local counties.

Erica Cline, the Commissioners' representative on the Southeastern Indiana Regional Planning Commission, provide an updated on how Jefferson County becoming Broadband Ready could impact the community. The Commissioners have already passed an ordinance, and now need to submit an application.

"Once we're officially a Broadband Ready community this sends a signal to the telecommunications industry that our community has taken steps to reduce barriers to broadband infrastructure," she said, adding there also needs

Madison awarded funds for Main Street Phase II

BY MARK CAMPBELL

The City of Madison has been awarded nearly $9 million in federal transportation funds to improve roads and pedestrian access as part of a $10.3 million Phase II of a three-stage plan to remake the city's Main Street and the highway extending to the top of Hanover Hill.

The Indiana Department of Transportation announced the $8,857,451.80 award Thursday — the largest single allocation in the cycle — as part of an overall $162 million allocation to 50 cities, towns and counties in rural portions of Indiana.

Combined with a $3,872,000 federal grant the city received in March of 2021 to complete Phase I of the Main Street project, the city will have about $15 million to spend after providing its own 20% match.

"Strategic planning with our Main Street Steering Committee combined with our focus on improving public safety, growing tourism and attracting investment has now produced funding for two of the three phases of this initiative," Mayor Bob Courtney said. "We are very grateful for INDOT's commitment to improving the quality of life in Madison with our shared vision."

Deputy Mayor and Chief of Staff Mindy McGee, said the funds will be spent on roads and sidewalks — bridges in the Madison City limits are maintained by

Driver in pursuit dies in fiery crash

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A high speed police chase involving a rental car resulted in a fiery three-vehicle crash that left one man dead and two people seriously injured on Wednesday in New Albany.

The incident took place at about 2 p.m. and officers from the Indiana State Police Sellersburg post investigated after the driver of gray 2021 Dodge Challenger, registered out of Alabama to the Alamo Rental Car Agency, allegedly fled when New Albany police attempted to pull the car over near the intersection of State and Clay steets for traffic violations related to reckless driving.

The driver of the Challenger immediately fled down State Street at a high rate of speed, and the officer chose not to pursue. Approximately one minute later, the Challenger collided with a white Toyota Highlander that had entered State Street from the Target Parking lot. After striking the Highlander, the Challenger continued off the roadway and into a nearby parking lot where it collided with a parked bus. After the Challenger came to rest, the car quickly caught fire.

The officer who initially attempted to stop the car arrived and pulled one occupant from the vehicle. Responders were unable to remove a second occupant from the Challenger and that person was later pronounced dead at the scene.

The New Albany crash scene where the driver of a 2021 Dodge Challenger died and two others were injured in a fiery crash during a high-speed pursuit on Wednesday afternoon is shown.

An autopsy was performed Thursday and the deceased was identified as Darrell Lee Taylor, 36, of Louisville, who was the driver of the Challenger based on evidence of injuries obtained in the investigation.

The passenger in the Challenger has been identified as Damon L. Simpson, who was taken to University Hospital in Louisville with serious injuries but is expected to survive.

The driver of the Toyota Highlander, Gwendolyn Hartman, 60, of Georgetown, Indiana, also was transported to University Hospital with non-life-threatening injuries.

New Albany Police Department requested that the Indiana State Police crash reconstruction team investigate the crash and ISP troopers and detectives worked well into Wednesday evening before clearing the scene.

State Road 250 closure coming in Switzerland

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A section of State Road 250 in Switzerland County will be closed on or after Monday, April 4, to complete a slide repair and structure replacement project approximately one mile west of State Road 156 near Patriot.

The closure, issued by the Indiana Department of Transportation and contractor MAC Construction, will run through November 2022, while major repairs are made to the road and structures.

Crews will be on-site to complete tree clearing and right-of-way staking starting next week. That work will be completed under lane closures with flagging. During the full closure, traffic will be detoured along State Road 156 to State Road 56 through Aberdeen and East Enterprise.

The project is part of a nearly $4 million contract that also includes a slide repair on State Road 262 in Ohio County that was completed last year.

INDOT asks that drivers to use extra caution, avoid distractions, and consider worker safety when traveling through active construction zones. All work is weather-dependent and schedules are subject to change.

In other business, the Commissioners:

- Agreed to terms on the county's property insurance with Rick Sauley of RLS Insurance Group. The county's premium for the year will be $250,951 with Travelers Insurance, an increase of $46,335 over last year with additional vehicles and trailers added, and more property coverage, along with factoring in losses since Sauley said the company has paid out more in the last three years than it has taken in. The package currently does not include cyber security because Sauley noted insurance companies are requiring multi-factor authentication to mitigate the risks of cyber attacks, data breaches and business disruption in which the county is in the process of establishing.
- Approved polling locations for the 2022 election with one change. The Deputy polling place will be relocated from the elementary school to the firehouse. Administrative Assistant Sarah Morgan said county Building Inspector Josh Cline has verified the firehouse is compliant with the American Disabilities Act.
- County Auditor Heather Huff said the State Board of Accounts has been in her office doing the audits for 2019 and 2020 with the exit interview scheduled for Friday. She said the State Board of Accounts will be back later this year to do the audit for 2021.
- Commissioner Bobby Little reported on meeting on site Thursday at the new Jefferson County Sheriff's Office and Criminal Justice facility. "It was very productive," he said, noting that work is currently running ahead of schedule.
- Commissioner David Bramer said the initial meeting was held for updating the county's zoning ordinances in which he said one ordinance will be created with consistent definitions throughout. He said the initial emphasis will be for developing regulations for solar and wind in order to have procedures in place for defining "what they can and can't do." Bramer expects the ordinances to be completed next year.
- Reappointed Terry Phillips to the Jefferson County Public Library board for a four-year term.

Girls Inc. recognizes 3 women

Local club celebrating 50th anniversary

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Girls Inc. of Jefferson County, which has served the community since 1972 and is celebrating its 50th year, recently held its She Knows Where She's Going luncheon to recognize three Strong, Smart and Bold Women honorees for 2022.

Held in a video format due to the ongoing pandemic, state championship wrestler Kelsey Bilz, County Health Administrator Tammy Monroe and Connie Huntington, a former Girls Inc. president who was instrumental in acquiring the organization's first permanent location that remains its current base of operation, were all recognized via videos.

Bilz is presently studying nursing at Campbellsville University where she continues to wrestle. "I'm super thankful to be a part of wrestling, and to have accomplished as much as I have," said Bilz, who expressing wrestling has been good for her mental health in believing what she can do.

Monroe, who has been the County Health Administrator since 2012, has been challenged in her position the last couple of years by a global pandemic, while also dealing with breast cancer and becoming a breast cancer survivor.

"I credit my success in making through the past year by surrounding myself with wonderful, supportive family, my amazing staff and unselfish volunteers that gave us countless hours of their personal time to see us through this pandemic," said Monroe. "They all empowered me to make strong, smart and bold decisions in my professional and in my personal life. Thank you Girls Inc. for such an honor, and empowering all of our young girls to become strong, smart and bold women. I look forward to seeing the strong, smart and bold things they do for our community in the future."

Huntington, who for many years operated Valley Industrial Supply with her husband, former Madison Mayor Al Huntington, was president of the Girls Inc. board when the building at 109 West Third Street was purchased in 1981.

"We believed in the future of Girls Club and all that attended," said Huntington, when the decision was made to purchase the building. Although they weren't sure how they were going to pay for it, they outbid two others for the building which was being sold at auction.

"I'll call it a God thing. Within $1,000 of our limit everyone else quit bidding, Huntington said. "Yes, the house was ours, the future hope of Girls Inc."

They still weren't sure how they were going to pay the mortgage, but within two weeks an anonymous donor offered to pay off the mortgage with the only stipulation that she not be recognized for the gift.

"The next smart decision we made was hiring Susan Stahl as our director," Huntington added. "In April she will have guided Girls Inc. for 39 years through renovations, additions and strong programming. We are so proud of the leaders, donors and the girls attending Girls Inc."

The event included carryout boxed lunches for attendees as well as 50th birthday cakes and cupcakes to celebrate the milestone anniversary.

Jefferson County — to improve traffic and pedestrian access on Main Street while reenvisioning the way vehicles and pedestrians move through a district that includes both businesses and residents. She said additional grant funding will be sought in the next round of applications with hopes that money can be secured to complete the third phase of the project once the first two are finished.

She said the first phase will begin on the west end of the project and will address multiple aspects of each corridor. Due to federal funding cycles, the improvements are expected to begin in 2025-2026.

"The city has worked diligently over the past two years on traffic calming, long-term planning, and interim repairs to prepare for this major initiative," a news release issued by the city said.

INDOT dedicates approximately 25% of its federal highway funds to supporting local projects each year. Metropolitan Planning Organizations distribute those funds to cities, towns, and counties within the state's larger urbanized areas while INDOT distributes funds outside MPO areas. Communities must contribute at least 20% in local matching funds and meet other federal requirements to receive federal funding.

INDOT said the communities receiving grants will now design, develop and purchase land for projects that would be bid during the fiscal year beginning July 2027. While the funds awarded now are dedicated to construction, INDOT will also be financially participating in design, engineering, and right of way acquisition components of these projects.

RED CROSS

For a limited time, the American Red Cross has resumed testing all blood, platelet and plasma donations for COVID-19 antibodies. Plasma from routine donations that have high levels of COVID-19 antibodies may be used as convalescent plasma to help meet the needs of COVID-19 patients with weakened immune systems.

Red Cross blood supply remains vulnerable, and individuals are urged to schedule a blood or platelet donation. In the days and weeks ahead, it's critically important the Red Cross maintains a readily available blood supply so hospital patients can receive the care they need. To make an appointment, use the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org or call 1-800-733-2767.

Yearning for the truth after all this time

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I'm still bothered by memories that are over 20 years old. I mostly just want to know the truth of this situation. Here is the incredible and unlikely story that I have shared with no one.

My wife and I became good friends with a Catholic priest whom we both respected. We would occasionally invite him over for a meal at our house and shared good times for a couple of years. We all got to know each other well. The more we got together, the more I could tell my wife was becoming more and more infatuated with the good-looking priest. Let's just say the look in her eyes told the entire story.

We had two children, and I was working nights at the time. There were some occasions when they spent time alone together at our home. I figured it was OK since he was a priest, and I trusted my wife. Well, on one of the late nights of having our guest over for dinner, I pretended to fall asleep on the couch to see how the two behaved when I wasn't watching.

The flirting from my wife went into HIGH gear. It was all I could do to just lay there and listen to it, and a couple of times, she whispered things to him that I could not hear. After he left, I let her know of my ingenious ploy of fake sleep and pleaded with her to tell me what she was whispering to him. She claimed that she could not remember what she'd said. I did not believe her, but I loved her so much that I wanted to.

I've tried many times over the last two decades to get her to tell me what was said. I wish I had called the priest the next day to see if he would tell me. I'm guessing I would not like what was communicated, but I'm sure I could cope with the truth of the matter better than hearing her say, "I still don't remember what I said to him."

There is no information (even sexual) that could make me want to end our marriage. We still enjoy every day together, but I would greatly appreciate the truth even all these years later. Her unwillingness to open up about it sometimes reminds me of Bill Clinton's repeated lies under oath where he claimed no wrongdoing. — Still Waiting For Answers

Dear Still Waiting: Trust in your partner is a primary pillar of any successful relationship. This incident with the priest, though decades ago, left a dent in your wife's pillar. Seek the help of a couples therapist to communicate why it matters so much to you to learn the truth about this encounter and create the right environment for her to do so.

If she continues to withhold it (at this point, maybe she really has forgotten what she said), perhaps that's your sign to leave it and your curiosity in the past once and for all. If you're sure there's nothing — actions or words — that would make you want to leave her, then clearly what you have is more important than murmurs from decades ago. Don't let this weigh on you for another 20 years.

Feelings first

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: Some years ago, I went to a nearby office supply shop, where I saw a local couple looking around. The woman, a local musician, had Alzheimer's, but she seemed to recognize me, so we began a conversation. I don't recall what it was about, but it was the silliest, most illogical and the most fun conversation I've ever had with anyone. I just went along with whatever she said, never trying to force reality onto her and augmenting whatever her ideas were when I could.

Meanwhile, her husband seemed to be mortified beyond embarrassment.

I later left the shop, having purchased what I needed, and I felt so happy at connecting with this woman, as ridiculous as the conversation had been.

I think it is not good to try to convince such people about what "now" is like. In a way, that is reminding them that they are not well; this will make them feel badly and feed their depression. It is better to greet them "where they are" and find a way to spread some cheer in that. — Going With the Flow

Dear Going With the Flow: As Maya Angelou famously said: "I've learned that people will forget what you said, people will forget what you did, but people will never forget how you made them feel." Thank you for your insightful story.

Dear Annie: Nearly 13 years ago, my husband and I lost our 12-year-old son to a severe asthma attack. Since then, I have encountered numerous instances where I meet new people and am asked how many children we have. I have tried a couple of different ways to answer, but it always seems to be incredibly awkward either way.

On occasion, I have simply said that we have a daughter, but then I feel unbelievably guilty for not including my son. So, then I try telling them that I have two children but one of them passed away, which usually makes the person feel bad for either not knowing or for having brought it up.

I don't want anyone to feel bad about asking, because he is part of me every day, whether someone asks or not, but I also don't want to exclude him because he is, after all, still my son. Can you help me construct an appropriate response that won't leave either me or the inquirer feeling guilty? — Seeking Tactful Reply

Dear Tactful Reply: I am so sorry for your loss. You have absolutely nothing to feel guilty about. Answer anyone who asks you how many children you have in exactly the way that would make you feel most comfortable. If you don't want to tell the story of your son to someone, then don't, and if you do want to tell them, then tell them.

You have suffered enough, and you don't need to place anyone else's guilt or discomfort above your own feelings. That is their problem. The only thing to do is exactly what feels right for you and your family in that moment, and don't worry about what anyone else thinks or feels.

City's PACE Committee approves 5 applications

Board agrees process make needed revision

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Madison's Preservation And Community Enhancement Program Committee considered another round of grant applications Wednesday with all five requests scoring high enough to be recommended for funding by the Board of Public Works and Safety on Monday.

The list included two commercial properties — a new boutique hotel being developed at 111 East Second Street and a retail structure with a second story apartment — both in need of tuck pointing and other masonry work — and a dilapidated home in at 411 Dowell Street slated for major rehabilitation and a dangerous structure at 410 St. Michaels Avenue that was heavily damaged by fire last year and needs to demolished so that a new structure can be built in its place.

The five properties and their scoring included:

- 801 West Main Street, scored a 38 points with at least 30 points needed for recommendation.
- 111 East Second Street, scored 39.5 points with 30 points needed.
- 312 Poplar Street, scored 41 points with 30 points needed.
- 411 Dowell Street, scored 31 points with 28 points needed.
- 410 St. Michaels Avenue, scored 21.3 points with 21 points needed.

The five applications will cost the city about $52,625 in grant funding but the reinvestment in the community and impact on the neighborhoods will be far more with increased property values and protection of the city's National Historic District.

"The contribution to our historic district is amazing," said Committee Chairman Jim Bartlett, noting "these old building are the heart and soul of downtown Madison."

At the same time, committee members questioned whether the scoring criteria and application process needs revision since an application like the burned out duplex on St. Michaels Avenue achieved the minimum score by just a fraction of a point due in large part that the structure has sat vacant for only six months rather than years. The thought was that it would be better to encourage quick action on such projects rather than have the structure sit burned out and decaying for months or years.

Another issue is that applications are scored differently based on the intended use of the property — commercial as opposed to residential and owner-occupied compared to rental and/or Airbnb.

Nicole M. Schell, the city's director of planning who serves as a staff advisor to the committee, said the members probably need to schedule an organizational meeting to consider those issues and any other changes that might better define the process and said she would look for a date when all can meet.

BZA OKs limited camping at Vaughn Drive property

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Madison's Board of Zoning Appeals granted a property owner's request to allow RV and/or tent camping on three lots overlooking the Ohio River on the north side of the 500 block of Vaughn Drive during holiday and major event weekends this summer.

Those opposing the application said campers would block views of the river, allowing camping would impact property values.

Erin Dickerson and Cory Hankins bought the three lots at 502, 504 and 510 East Vaughn Drive last year — the city actually owns another lot in between the three — with hopes of placing tiny homes on the sites as a place for family members to stay and camp during events like the Madison's Regatta, Ribberfest and Chautauqua and other major festival weekends.

One tiny home was actually placed on one lot and sat there for months until neighbors complained that the new owners were in violation of the city's zoning ordinance. Dickerson removed the tiny home soon after being told of the violation and then began the process of finding out what she could do with the property since the previous owner who sold to them had allowed limited camping on the site.

In an earlier meeting with the BZA, the new owners were told that tiny homes would not be approved but that the previous property owner had been granted variance for camping and that as long as a similar agreement and terms could be reached that might still be a possibility.

The new owners were back on Monday seeking a variance to place up to 12 campers or tents on the three lots on roughly a dozen weekends a year with a few neighboring property owners on hand to make their concerns known.

Those opposing the application said campers would block views of the river, allowing camping would impact property values and that the community has worked hard to develop the south side of Vaughn Drive and campers do not fit in well with that development or the historic district.

The BZA countered with the fact that RV use would be restricted by terms of the variance, that weekends like the Madison Regatta already draw thousands of visitors to the area so much that the camping would not be out of place.

In the end, the BZA granted a one-year permit allowing the three lots to be used for camping by up to 12 RVs or tents on the Memorial Day, Labor Day and Independence Day holidays as well as Madison Chautauqua Festival of Art, Ribberfest BB & Blues Festival, Madison Regatta and Roostertail Music Festival, Soup Stew Chili & Brew, Vintage Thunder Weekend, Wine, Stein and Barrel and Golf Cart/UTV Poker Run.

Campers can set up the Friday afternoon before events and must be gone by the Monday afternoon afterwards.

There can be no permanent on-site storage, no amplified music, fireworks campfires after 11 p.m. and a list of other restrictions. The vote was 5-0 by the BZA.

behind that is that incarceration just semi guarantees that they can't use, but it doesn't take care of the underlying issues. There's a trauma component to it, and when they're in the jail system, they're in a managed care setting so they can't use" but that does not necessarily resolve the addiction issue once they are released from that setting.

Stone-Hahn said there is a strong need for addiction treatment — enough to warrant consideration of a 100-bed facility. She said the building would be designed with residential treatment on one side and intensive outpatient treatment on the other side.

"If I could wave a magic wand and they all went through residential treatment, and they all never used drugs or alcohol again, that facility would be full for five years," Stone-Hahn said. "That's the drug epidemic that we're looking at, that's the idea behind a larger facility, never having to say, 'I'm sorry we don't have a bed' and turning someone away because they continue to use because we won't have a bed in three days, or in a week."

She said the group has already taken several steps toward doing what needs to be done to meet requirements for operating a facility. "We have policies and procedures ready to go for this facility, so that piece is done," she said, noting the next part if obtaining licensing.

Stone-Hahn asked for support from the Residential Treatment Committee in efforts to land grant funding for Joshua's House.

"The only thing we need is your help, and your blessing," said Stone-Hahn, "so we can file for the license, find a building and start making this happen." Stone-Hahn said the plan is for Joshua's House to go beyond treatment.

"It's not enough to decide you want to have a residential treatment facility," she said, adding that while patients are in the managed care facility they should also get the help to move their lives forward after they've conquered substance abuse. "If they don't have their GED, they can work with someone to get a GED. If they needed to get a job, they could be helped to get a job."

She said it could even include help to write a resumé or balance a checkbook, which she said are "all of those things that people in active addiction don't think about because it's not something that's important to them, and the only way to help that be important to them is keep them in that managed setting where they begin to realize they have something to offer themselves for their children and their families."

The name, Joshua's House, Stone-Hahn said comes from a family member who died from a heroin overdose. She said after that happened, it "changed the trajectory of my career" and focused her work more on substance abuse rehabilitation. "I've been working toward pulling together something like this the last two years."

Jim Courter, who organized the group last year with Commissioner Ron Lee, has focused his vision on having a new state-of-the-art 24-bed facility that would be located next to the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office and Criminal Justice facility due to be completed next year.

Courter's vision for residential treatment has been for the smaller facility, not a larger one like being sought for Joshua's House. He noted both have a "similar vision, but not to the extent of the total philosophy that you have" but "if you're helping people, we're for you. If you're helping people with addictions, we're really for you."

Dugle said they attended the meeting "to see what we could potentially do with you" in bringing a residential treatment facility to Jefferson County. "I think you guys are doing great things," he said. "It is more trying to help fill a need that you guys needed" since the Joshua's House group is hoping to "move faster in getting drug treatment started here."

Dugle noted the group also hopes to open a "Recovery Cafe" at the Eggleston Community Building in downtown Madison as a hang out to support those trying to overcome addiction. He said there are several over Recovery Cafe locations in Indiana, but this would be the first south of Indianapolis.

Meanwhile, the committee is encouraging efforts to move forward toward the hiring of a coordinator after the county was awarded a $112,000 grant. The hope is that the coordinator, whose position will be funded through June of 2023, will provide leadership while seeking grant funding to successfully move the effort forward for a residential treatment facility.

Erica Cline has been charged implementation of the grant after the resignation of Amber Finnegan, former Court Services director, who had applied for the funding. Cline said JRAC will oversee the hiring process with the Commissioners finalizing who is hired as coordinator. Lee, the president of the Commissioners, said he will get the process started by getting the coordinator position posted on the county government website.

Are You Planning to Retire? Here Are A Few Things to Consider.

"Planning to retire? Be sure you have your exit plan in place and remember, when you retire, you never have a day off."

Steve Dybwad

Retirement is not likely to look anything like your parents' retirement. The economic impact of government actions related to the pandemic, inflation caused by loose monetary policy, and stock market volatility have created craters in even the best-laid retirement plans. Many Americans are considering taking the money and running, opting for early retirement.

a long-haul trucker, says he was initially going to wait another five years before retiring. "Dealing with a lack of parts for my trucks because of supply-chain problems, frustrating and time-consuming regulatory changes, and inflation have made my life challenging. I'm retiring now instead of later," he explained.

Retiring early is a decision many Americans have already made, mainly because their workplaces reduced or eliminated staff. Some workers were offered attractive incentives for taking early retirement by companies feeling the pinch of COVID lockdowns.

Regardless of whether your retirement plans look solid, it's still a great time to review your portfolio's balance and think about for how long you want to continue working. Fortunately, the basics of creating a secure retirement remain the same, except for perhaps a few additional COVID-related caveats. Here are a few things to consider:

Don't count on working forever.

Until COVID- working until you dropped seemed like a viable plan. However, results from a 2021 study by the Employee Benefits Research Institute (EBRI) confirm previous findings that indicate nearly 50% of all retirees left the workforce before the original target retirement date. This reality means that people in their 50's and 60's should have emergency plans solidly in place.

Reduce or eliminate as much debt as you can.

It's common sense to make debt reduction a priority. You don't want to take a credit card balance, car payment, or student loan with you when you retire, especially when retiring in an unpredictable economy.

Have a health insurance strategy in place.

If you find yourself retired before you are eligible for Medicare, you may have to find an affordable policy for those "gap years." Even if you do get Medicare, you'll need to plan for things like co-pays and uncovered expenses. One thing to consider is a health savings account, or HSA, which can help you grow a pot of emergency cash you can use when you retire. Ask your financial advisor to explain the many benefits of HSA plans and help you determine if starting one will work for you.

Finally, no matter what you decide about retiring, meet with a qualified retirement income planner.

Ultimately, deciding when to retire may or may not be up to you. However, if you are thinking about leaving the workforce, you should sit down with your advisor and discuss every potential pitfall and how to avoid them.

Your advisor will suggest more strategies and recommend the right products to help you avoid running out of money when you stop working.

Trimble rally falls short in 5-4 loss to South Oldham

Trimble County's final-inning rally fell one run short as the Raiders lost 5-4 to South Oldham in their 2022 softball season opener Thursday at home.

South Oldham scored three runs in the fourth inning and solo runs in the third and seventh to take a 5-0 lead into the bottom of the seventh when Trimble's offense finally went to work.

Kaylee Payton and Emma Ginn each drew walks and scored on an error off the bat of Hannah Chilton to begin the rally.

Shelby Wright then followed with a single and Jocie Stucker hammered a two-run double to close the gap to one.

But South Oldham was then able to get the final out to secure the win.

"It was a tough loss. We left runners on several times," Trimble coach Randy Wilson said. "But the younger kids stepped up and had some great hits."

Wright went 3-for-4 to lead Trimble's offense while Ginn had a hit, an RBI and a run scored while drawing three walks, including an intentional walk in the first inning with nobody on base.

Maddie Nixon added a hit for the Raiders.

McKenna Ritchie suffered the loss for Trimble after allowing four runs on four hits in four innings with a strikeout and four walks.

Chilton allowed a run in three innings of relief.

Trimble, now 0-1 on the season, is scheduled to travel to Fern Creek today, but that game is in doubt due to the weather.

The Raiders return home to host North Central Kentucky Conference foe Walton-Verona on Monday and travels to Pleasure Ridge Park on Tuesday.

CARROLL BASEBALL BEATS SCOTT

Carroll County managed only three hits but the Raiders made the most of each one to knock off Scott 5-3 in the Panthers' baseball season opener at home on Thursday.

After falling behind 2-0, Carroll scored three runs in the third inning to take the lead for good. After a strikeout to open the inning, the next two batters reached on a hit batter and a walk and came in on David Smith's double to left. Smith then went to third in an error and scored on Luke Staley's sacrifice fly.

The Panthers added two more runs in the fourth inning. Branon Battaglia opened the frame with a single and Jaxon Hewitt followed by drawing a walk.

Braden Stephenson then reached on an error to load the bases and Battaglia scored on a wild pitch. A squeeze bunt then scored courtesy runner Zayn Satchwell for a 5-2 lead.

Scott loaded the bases in the fifth and scored one run to close the gap to two and stranded two runners in the sixth before going down in order in the seventh.

Landon Isaacs allowed one earned run on five hits over four innings to pick up the win with Lucas Shepherd striking out three during a perfect seventh for the save. Blaise Huiet took the loss for Scott.

Carroll, now 1-0 on the season, returns to action today when it travels to South Oldham. The Panthers then head to Collins on Monday and host Conner on Tuesday.

HANOVER LACROSSE ROLLS DALLAS

Hanover held a 49-7 advantage in shots and rolled to a 20-2 win over the University of Dallas in women's lacrosse on Wednesday in Louisville.

Five different players scored for the Panthers in the win, led by Anne Breeding, who had six goals and an assist. Milah Young had five goals, Britney Hernandez had four goals and three assists, Masi McNally-Henriksen had four goals, and Eme Edman added a goal.

Delaney Benner needed only three saves to pick up the win in goal.

Hanover, now 2-4 on the season, hosts Kalamazoo at Alumni Stadium today then take the week off before hosting Heidelberg on Sunday, March 27.

Saint Peter's shocks No. 2 seed Kentucky 85-79 in OT

BY GARY B. GRAVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Saint Peter's acted like it had been there before.

After the 15th-seeded Peacocks bounced storied Kentucky from the NCAA Tournament on Thursday night, they calmly exchanged handshakes with the Wildcats before heading over to the opposite sideline to celebrate with a small contingent of true believers.

The tiny Jesuit school from Jersey City, New Jersey, got 27 points from Daryl Banks III as it took down basketball royalty, beating second-seeded Kentucky 85-79 in overtime and sending countless brackets into the digital wastebasket.

"It was an amazing feeling," Banks said. "You grow up you watching March Madness, the tournament, so to let that sink in — knowing the game was over — it felt really good."

The Peacocks became the 10th No. 15 seed to win a first-round game since the tournament expanded to 64 teams in 1985 and handed Kentucky its first opening-round loss under coach John Calipari.

"At the end of the day, every team that made it to the NCAA Tournament deserves to be here. Every team that made it to the NCAA Tournament believes they can advance. It's about this night," Saint Peter's coach Shaheen Holloway said.

Saint Peter's, the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference champion, kept it close throughout and Banks' two free throws with 1:45 left in overtime gave the Peacocks the lead for good. Doug Edert's layup with 24 seconds left in regulation sent the game to overtime. He also made the final two game-sealing free throws for the Peacocks and finished with 20 points.

Saint Peter's (20-11) moves on to face Murray State in Saturday's second round in the East Region.

Not bad for a school with an enrollment of about 3,500 that's made half as many NCAA Tournament appearances (four) as Kentucky has national titles (eight). Kentucky had nearly 31,800 students enrolled on its 900-acre campus as of last fall and has the second highest-paid coach in college hoops in Calipari (more than $8 million per year).

"It's huge," Banks said. "We're putting Jersey City on the map. We come from Jersey, a small school, probably a lot of people don't even know who we are."

Oscar Tshiebwe had 30 points and 16 rebounds for Kentucky (26-8) but his pair of missed free throws early in overtime was costly, and the Wildcats lacked a reliable secondary scorer. TyTy Washington Jr. was held to five points on 2-of-10 shooting.

The game featured 16 ties and 13 lead changes. Kentucky went ahead 68-62 on Sahvir Wheeler's driving layup with 4:12 remaining. Saint Peter's followed with seven unanswered points, capped by Edert's go-ahead 3-pointer with 1:25 remaining. Kellan Grady put Kentucky back ahead before Edert forced OT.

The Wildcats had their eyes set on a ninth title behind Tshiebwe, the 6-foot-9 forward who is a candidate for national player of the year honors.

Regatta plans for plenty of on-water action this year

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

If all goes according to plan, fans will have three-straight days packed with racing action at this year's Madison Regatta.

Madison Regatta President Greg Thorpe on Wednesday unveiled the race schedule for this year's event, which will feature three different classes of hydroplanes: the big H1 Unlimiteds, the Grand Prix America automotive-powered boats, and the Pro Lite sport boat class.

Thorpe was quick to point out that the schedule is "extremely tentative" but if everything works out, there will be little down time on the water.

"This plan has been approved but some of the classes still have some tweaks that need to be made and, of course, there is the river to be worried about," Thorpe said. "But we're happy with the schedule."

The race schedule is dependent upon boats being placed in the Regatta pits on Thursday to allow for the full schedule beginning on Friday, July 1. Pit chairman Harold Perry noted that several boats may not arrive until Friday morning which could alter the schedule.

On Friday, July 1, testing on the Ohio River is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. with the GPA series with the Pro Lites following at 10 a.m. and the H1 series at 11 a.m. The GPAs and Pro Lites are then scheduled to run competitive heats in the afternoon starting at 1 p.m. with H1 qualifying set to start at 3 p.m.

More testing is set for Saturday with all three series running heats. Sunday will be exclusively for the H1 and GPA boats with the final heats beginning at 3:30 p.m.

In addition to the race schedule, Thorpe also detailed the rest of the Madison Regatta Festival schedule, which is highlighted by the Roostertail Music Festival on race weekend.

Many of the festival events, such as the return of the Hot Air Balloon Race and the annual Madison Regatta Scholarship Pageant, are still seeking locations. Festival Chair Kim Washer said those details should be ironed out in the coming weeks.

The annual festival will begin with the return of the Little Miss, Miss Preteen and Miss Teen pageants on Saturday, June 25.

Fifth-seeded Saint Mary's routs No. 12 Indiana 82-53

BY ANNE M. PETERSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

PORTLAND, Ore. — Logan Johnson scored 20 points and fifth-seeded Saint Mary's took advantage of No. 12 seed Indiana's grueling recent schedule, rolling to an 82-53 victory in the first round of the NCAA Tournament on Thursday.

Tommy Kuhse added 19 points and six assists for the Gaels (26-7), the only team to beat top overall seed Gonzaga in the West Coast Conference this season. Saint Mary's will face No. 4 seed UCLA, which rallied to beat Akron 57-53, in a second-round game Saturday.

"We're a gritty, not pretty team," Johnson said. "We all find ways to get it done. And we know once we get going defensively, and especially offensively, that's when teams are in trouble and they really find out what they're stepping into."

Trayce Jackson-Davis had 12 points for Indiana (21-14), which lost by its largest margin in the tournament. The Hoosiers arrived in Portland early Wednesday morning after an all-nighter because of flight delays from Dayton following the First Four. Indiana won its first tournament game since 2016 by beating Wyoming 66-58 on Tuesday night.

Thursday's game was Indiana's fifth in seven days. Saint Mary's came in fresh from a 10-day layoff after falling to the Bulldogs in the WCC title game.

"I've never been a coach that makes excuses," Indiana's Mike Woodson said. "I had to do better to get these guys ready. And I give Saint Mary's all the credit, but I thought tonight we just didn't have it and I know we have a much better team than we showed tonight. That's on me."

Saint Mary's pulled away late in the first half and led by as many as 34 points — and the overtaxed Hoosiers couldn't catch up.

"I think we wore them down," Gaels coach Randy Bennett said. "All the factors that came into play with them playing Tuesday and having to travel. But I don't want to negate the fact that our guys played well when they needed to play well."

The Gaels, ranked No. 19 in the AP Top 25, earned their highest seed in 11 NCAA Tournament appearances. Their best finish in the tournament came in 2010, when they went to the Sweet 16.

Saint Mary's stature in the tournament was no doubt boosted by its 67-57 win at home over No. 1 Gonzaga on Feb. 26.

Indiana, which has won five NCAA championships, was making its 40th tournament appearance.

At least at the start, Indiana wasn't showing any fatigue. The Hoosiers had a narrow lead for much of the half until Alex Ducas' 3-pointer that put Saint Mary's in front 25-21. The Gaels extended the lead to 33-26 on another Ducas 3.

Saint Mary's ground Indiana down and led 40-28 at the half. Ducas, a junior from Australia, finished with 13 points.

The Gaels stretched the lead to 55-31 in the second half on Kuhse's 3-pointer.

"I think overall they were a sharper team than us," Jackson-Davis said. "They hit their shots, they ran their offense and they were overall the better team."

BIG PICTURE

Indiana: The only previous meeting against Saint Mary's was way back in 1957. The Hoosiers won, 79-66 in Bloomington. ... Jackson-Davis averaged 18.4 points and 8.2 rebounds.

Saint Mary's: Bennett, in his 21st season with the Gaels, was named the WCC Coach of the Year. He's won the honor four times. But the latest comes after turning around a team that struggled last season to finish 14-10. ... Saint Mary's wore warmup jerseys that read "No Quit."

Murray State edges San Francisco 92-87 in overtime

BY GARY B. GRAVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Games like this require veteran leadership, which KJ Williams and others delivered for Murray State.

Williams scored six of his 18 points in overtime after Murray State blew an eight-point lead late in regulation, and the seventh-seeded Racers extended their winning streak to 21 games with a 92-87 victory over San Francisco in the first round of the NCAA Tournament on Thursday night.

"That game defined our team," Murray State coach Matt McMahon said. "That's just who they are. They find ways to win. Their toughness and will to win is incredibly special. I'm proud of them for their fight. We battled some foul trouble. Battled some cramps. Different guys stepped up."

The Racers (31-2) tied South Dakota State for the longest winning streak in the nation this season. With SDSU's loss to Providence earlier Thursday, Murray State can edge ahead in Saturday's East Region second-round game against Saint Peter's. The 15th-seeded Peacocks toppled Kentucky 85-79 in OT.

The nightcap in Indianapolis was just as tight, with 18 lead changes and 14 ties in a contest that ended early Friday morning. Murray State ultimately took control with Williams' clutch baskets and Jordan Skipper-Brown's timely plays in the extra session.

Skipper-Brown in particular drew praise from McMahon and Williams.

"Skip came a long way with his performance tonight, and it shows that he been working on and off the court," Williams said. "He just showed that great character tonight and just came out and played tremendously."

McMahon added, "Skipper-Brown, when we needed him most, delivers a double-double."

Jamaree Bouyea scored a career-high 36 points for USF (24-10), which made its first NCAA appearance since 1998. The graduate guard made just 4 of 12 from long range but was 13 of 26 overall, with each make shifting momentum.

"Trying to leave it all out there, no regrets," Bouyea said. "We needed buckets and stops and I was trying to put the ball in the basket."

Zane Meeks added 13 points and Patrick Tape 10 with three blocks for USF before fouling out.

Williams made a go-ahead layup with 1:15 remaining before Skipper-Brown's layup made it 89-85 with 30 seconds left. Zane Meeks' putback got USF within a basket, but he missed a free throw. Skipper-Brown made two free throws with 13.7 seconds left before adding another with 1.7 seconds remaining to seal the win.

The Racers led 73-65 with 1:58 remaining in regulation, but Khalil Shabazz made a 3-pointer and Bouyea followed with five straight points.

Trae Hannibal also had 18 points for Murray State before fouling out late in regulation. Brown added 17, Justice Hill scored 15 and Skipper-Brown had 12 points and 10 rebounds, all of which the Racers needed to gut out their latest win.

San Francisco owned the paint 40-36 but was outrebounded 43-35, and that made the difference. The Dons also shot just 9 of 35 from long range.

"We let it fly," coach Todd Golden said. "I thought we got some really, really good looks, especially in the second half. That didn't just drop. It allowed them to get that little bit of a lead late.

"Fortunately we were able to come back, but man, I think we'll watch the tape and just be a little disappointed that we didn't shoot the ball better."

Murray State got the balance it wanted and needed to outlast the Dons. Skipper-Brown led a bench effort that outscored USF 36-23.

Spiders attack, upset 5th-seeded Iowa with 67-63 1st-round win

BY JOHN WAWROW
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Jacob Gilyard had an inkling a week ago — well before Richmond had even qualified for the NCAA Tournament — that the Spiders were capable of a first-round upset.

"Probably last Thursday," the fifth-year guard said, referring to the day Richmond began a four-win run to the Atlantic 10 Tournament title. "We're a fairly confident group and I think last weekend showed that."

Spiders coach Chris Mooney had a feeling long before then, he said in the wake of the 12th-seeded Spiders' 67-63 first-round win over Big Ten champion Iowa on Thursday.

Mooney reflected on how Richmond's chances to qualify for the 2020 tournament with a 24-7 record were canceled because of the pandemic. Richmond went 14-9 last season, and Mooney credited the commitment six of his seniors showed when they chose to return for their extra year of COVID-19 eligibility.

"I told them it wasn't going to be all perfect, like their careers haven't been perfect. And I said, 'The reason you came back was to handle adversity,' " Mooney said. "And these guys have done that in a great way all season."

Gilyard scored 24 points, Tyler Burton added 18 points and 11 rebounds, and the Spiders improved their NCAA tourney record against fifth-seeded teams to 4-0. The Spiders (24-12) will face the Midwest Region's No. 4 seed, Providence, which defeated South Dakota State.

Keegan Murray scored 21 points and Patrick McCaffery added 18 for the Hawkeyes (26-10), who were unable to carry over the momentum of winning four times in four days.

Reds swap pitchers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SURPRISE, Ariz. — Kansas City traded left-hander Mike Minor to the Cincinnati Reds for left-hander Amir Garrett on Wednesday.

Cincinnati would get $500,000 from the Royals if Minor's mutual option for 2023 is declined, covering half the cost of the buyout.

The 29-year-old Garrett, who was 0-4 with a 6.04 ERA and seven saves in 63 appearances last season.

The 34-year-old Minor went 8-12 with a 5.50 ERA across 28 starts with the Royals last season, but he was likely going to be pushed into a long reliever role if he stuck with Kansas City this season.

The club is in the midst of a youth movement and Minor did not appear to fit with those plans.

Minor is due $10 million this season in the second year of an $18 million, two-year contract.

The deal originally included a $13 million club option for 2023 with a $1 million buyout but the contract contains a provision converting it to a mutual option because of the trade.

KENTUCKY

And Kentucky was playing in front of a predominantly blue-clad crowd at Gainbridge Fieldhouse, a 2 ½ hour drive from Lexington.

"It is sad because I've been wanting this moment for a long time," Tshiebwe said.

Banks set the tone throughout, making all four 3s for 16 first-half points. He finished 9 of 19 from the field and 5 of 8 from deep, with a loud reaction following most every big shot.

Teammates followed suit.

Edert made 5 of 7 shots including both of his 3-point tries. Saint Peter's finished 9 of 17 overall from 3 and shot 29 of 57 overall (50.9%). The Peacocks also stayed close on the boards (35 to Kentucky's 36) and made 18 of 21 from the line.

"It feels amazing, truly it feels amazing," Edert said. "They had a great crowd, a lot of people. I don't know if you saw it, but we had our own little section over there, too."

Kentucky was 26 of 61 (43%) overall and 23 of 35 from the line. The Wildcats were tentative at times with the ball, hesitation that ended with forced shots. And it led to a second consecutive loss to close the season.

"My whole thing this week, because I knew they had never played in this stuff, was to get them free and loose and we never got to that point," Calipari said. "Even during timeouts, I was trying to do that. ... As a coach it's your job to figure out how to finish the game and we didn't do that."

TURNING POINT

After Banks' go-ahead free throws, Kentucky had two empty possessions. Wheeler's turnover led to a layup by Drane. Then KC Ndefo blocked Keion Brooks Jr.'s layup attempt, and Banks made two more free throws.

Washington sank a 3 to get Kentucky within 81-79 before Lee and Edert sealed it at the line.

BITTERSWEET MEMORIES

Before taking over at Saint Peter's, Holloway spent eight years as an assistant at his alma mater, Seton Hall. He played four years for the Pirates and experienced the highs and lows of the NCAA Tournament as a senior in 2000.

Holloway scored 27 points and made the go-ahead basket with 1.9 seconds left in a first-round win over Oregon, but he was injured and played only eight minutes in a second-round win over Temple. He did not play when Seton Hall was eliminated in the Sweet 16 by Oklahoma State.

Saint Peter's: The Peacocks didn't flinch against their more talented foe, keeping up with and sometimes dictating the pace. Banks' perimeter shooting was huge in the first half before he came up late in the game and in OT.

Kentucky: The Wildcats had to work for nearly every basket but succeeded at getting to the line. But they struggled moving the ball and missed several key shots that could have won the game. Instead, they're going home early a year after missing the tournament altogether.

Saint Peter's hopes to repeat Oral Roberts' run to the Sweet 16 as a No. 15 seed last year.

2021 School Corporation Annual Performance Report (APR)

General Explanations

The APR is a report on the performance of schools and school corporations (districts) in your area. The goal is to provide information regarding the progress schools are making to help students become college-and–career ready. Where possible, this report contains three years of data to show trends – not just this year's results. In addition, the State Average is also shown for comparison purposes. There are additional indicators that are available on the Indiana Department of Education's Web site (inview.doe.in.gov), including data broken out by different student subgroups, such as race, gender, income level and special education.

Indiana educators and citizens have developed higher academic standards for all students. These standards are necessary to prepare Indiana students to be successful in life, whether they go directly to higher education or to the workplace. For high schools, you will see graduation rates and the percentage of graduates who plan to go on to college.

Other important data are provided, such as average attendance rates and indicators of school safety, including expulsions and suspensions. Also included is information about your school corporation, such as how much is spent, on average, for each student; how much teachers are paid; and the percentage of corporation students who are in special education classes or gifted and talented classes.
